SAN ANTONIO — Texas Land Commissioner George P. Bush and San Antonio Mayor Ivy R. Taylor invite children ages 9 to 13 to make new friends, pull out their coon skin cap and immerse themselves in the history of the Texas revolution at Alamo Summer Camp! Campers will learn what it was like to live in 1830s and 40s Texas.

Additionally, in honor of the 180th anniversary of the Battle of the Alamo, Mayor Taylor is sponsoring an Alamo Summer Camp Tuition Scholarship Essay Contest. Six students will receive full camp tuition to one session of 2016 Alamo Summer Camp (a $250 value), a certificate from Mayor Ivy R. Taylor and their essay published in the official Alamo Newsletter.

"As a former teacher and father of two boys, I am excited to announce this rare opportunity for kids age 9 to 13 to attend summer camp at Texas' favorite history classroom - the Alamo," said Commissioner George P. Bush. "Alamo campers will have a great time learning about Texas and San Antonio history while making friends and experience a rare opportunity to learn at the Shrine of Texas Liberty."

"When we build emotional ties to places and their history with our children, we create tomorrow's stewards of our heritage," said San Antonio Mayor Ivy. R Taylor.
